Safari Resort Beekse Bergen, the Netherlands

Giraffes and watusi. A speakeasy evoking the Prohibition Era with everything from the décor to the drinks. A remodeled center for which Bruce Springsteen performed at the Grand Reopening. Yes, this year's class of BJI Architecture & Design Awards winners is an adventuresome bunch. The forthcoming pages demonstrate that imagination is in abundant supply among proprietors in the boutique and family entertainment center space today. If you are one of them, you are bound to come away from the 34th BJI Architecture & Design Awards with ideas to ponder and possibilities to pursue. Enjoy.

SAFARI RESORT BEEKSE BERGEN

Hilvarenbeek, Netherlands

Owner: Libema

Architect: Van Aken Concerts Architecture & Engineering

Designer: OT Design

Manufacturer: QubicaAMF (Represented by Bowltech Group Europe)

Got giraffes? That is a question only one center in this year's BJI Architecture & Design Awards can answer in the affirmative: Safari Resort Beekse Bergen in the Netherlands. A €100 million remodeling of this 50-year-old safari-themed resort culminated with the gorgeous bowling center inside a new central building called Karibu Town. The distinctiveness of its theme, décor, design and experience helped put it over the top in this year's competition.

BEST NEW CENTER – INTERIOR, U.S.

THE PAINTED DUCK

Atlanta, GA

Owner: Justin Amick

Architect: WJG Design

Designer: Bob Amick of Concentrics Hospitality Solutions

Manufacturer: QubicaAMF

After winning in the category of Best New Center — Boutique in 2014 with The Painted Pin, owner Justin Amick returns with another breathtaking, Atlanta-based lounge and entertainment destination, The Painted Duck. As the name implies, it's duckpin bowling at The Painted Duck, not tenpin, and prominent aspects of the interior design — particularly the custom-made masking units by artist Todd Murphy — cohere around the duckpin theme.

BOWLING ROOM HAGEN

Hagen, Germany

Owner: Daniel Vukovic

Architect: Daniel Vukovic

Designer: Daniel Vukovic

Manufacturer: QubicaAMF
(Represented by Bowltech Group Europe)

Originally opened in 2005, Hagen 12 underwent a modernization project that came to completion this past summer. A trend we have seen with increasing abundance in recent editions of the BJI Architecture & Design Awards — interior neon signage — lends a flashy touch to this center's refurbishment, particularly its stunning party space. The massive masking-unit screens as well as the sleek specialty lighting throughout also help make the center pop.
